

Squires Transcript

Music up and under: driving country rock

Announce: Sara Squires uses a power scooter to get where she needs to go, and she loves music—all kinds of music. One of the places she likes to go is concerts.

Squires: Concerts are fun and they're loud and they can be a little bit crazy, and you're with a group of friends, and you're another college student, just out on the town and disability shouldn't have to come into play.

Announce: Without the arts, she says, life would be very black and white.

Squires: Music is a powerful method to express your mood, if you're feeling a certain way, and if people didn't have that though any means, I think we'd become bottled up.

Announce: The arts. They're for everyone.

Music up to end and out.
